

Vocabulary

Consequences	The result of a choice someone has made	Cooperate	Work together
Empathise	Understanding and sharing the feelings of someone else	Ethnicity	Belonging to a large group of people with a shared nationality and therefore often culture
Experience	Something that happens to you	Independence	Doing things for yourself
Nationality	Which 'nation' you were born in usually gives your nationality. E.g.: A person born in Germany has German nationality. Sometimes , if someone moves to live in another country permanently, they can choose to become a citizen of that country, meaning their nationality would change.	Responsible/ responsibilities	Being responsible is doing the things you are meant to do and understanding that there are consequences if you don't. Having responsibilities is about having things that you need to do and making sure you do them as you are meant to.
Perspective	Viewpoint	Respect	Showing care and valuing others
Witness	Someone who sees something happen

What is the difference between culture and ethnicity?

Ethnicity is largely to do with nationality (where you come from)
E.g.: Spanish, African, Asian, Irish, British...

...whereas culture is something we are taught by other humans and gets passed from one generation to another (grandparents to parents to children etc.)
E.g. language, manners, traditions, celebrations, values, family roles and structures.

Culture and ethnicity are therefore closely linked: if your ethnicity is Spanish, you are likely to be taught Spanish traditions, language, manners and values (Spanish culture).

What does a healthy adult relationship look like?

Perspective
